

STRATEGISING NONVIOLENT CHANGE FOR SOCIAL MOVEMENTS

Participants are able

- apply selected tools for the analysis of the dynamics of nonviolent social conflict in their own contexts;
- think more strategically, i.e. formulating goals, steps and demands of nonviolent social movements;
- reflect and more systematically manage risks and opportunities.

From Gandhi to the 'Arab Spring', from the anti-nuclear movement to the struggle for... The training will offer a "guided tour" through cycles and dynamics of strategising processes in nonviolent movements. We will use a variety of practice-oriented analytical and strategic tools, with many application exercises on participants' own case studies.

Coaching elements will be used to tailor the trainings to the needs and interests of the participants, so that they will leave with a practical toolkit for further action. Special emphasis will be given to not just develop grand plans, but to deal with chaos and risks, opportunities and repression, and how to build strategic alliances, in order to turn inevitable failures and shortcomings into long lasting success.

Trainers: Thimna Bunte, Julia Kramer, Björn Kunter

Date: 06–10 November 2017

THIMNA BUNTE is a former civil peace worker for KURVE Wustrow in Palestine. She accompanies, advises and trains actors and initiatives of nonviolent resistance and conflict transformation.*

JULIA KRAMER is a trainer and advisor on nonviolent conflict transformation at KURVE Wustrow. Her expertise includes project and security management, campaigning and human rights.*

BJÖRN KUNTER is a trainer, activist, researcher and advisor for nonviolent movements in Germany and Eastern Europe. He is specialised in networking and strategic nonviolence.*

PROJECT MANAGEMENT

Participants are able to

- assess the strengths and weaknesses of selected project management approaches and tools;
- select the relevant and appropriate tools for their project context;
- apply key elements of selected project management tools.

Peace work needs proper planning, monitoring and evaluation in order to be able to contribute positively towards conflict transformation. In this training we will deal with questions about effective ways to promote peace and respective tools are offered to find valid answers. These approaches and tools range from Outcome Mapping to "Do no harm" and "Reflecting on Peace Practice".

Participants will gain insights into selected tools and have the opportunity to apply these tools to their own projects and/or case studies. Participants will assess the strengths and weaknesses of these tools in order to choose and adapt the right tools for managing their peace projects.

The training is relevant for all who intend to engage in or are already in a position to coordinate peace projects.

Trainers: Jochen Neumann, Gesa Bent

PRACTITIONER TRAININGS

FOR NONVIOLENT CONFLICT TRANSFORMATION

October–November 2017

6 weeks – 6 different topics
individually bookable

ANTI-BIAS AND SOCIAL INCLUSION

Participants are able to

- reflect upon and express their own role in processes of exclusion and inclusion at personal, interpersonal and structural levels in a global context;
- critically reflect on the role of prejudices, power inequalities and ideologies in peace work and to begin to develop strategies to counter their negative effects;
- explain and build upon the anti-bias and social inclusion approach in their own work context.

Peace Work aims at establishing and nurturing inclusive societies that provide equal access to social, political and economic resources to all – irrespective of their ethnic origin, age, gender, physical or mental condition, religious background, sexual orientation, etc. The training introduces the concepts of Anti-Bias and Social Inclusion. It aims at strengthening respect for diversity and creating awareness for discrimination and social exclusion.

Participants will reflect how they themselves are involved and/or affected by the social/global power relations. They will learn how to initiate processes of prejudice awareness that motivate and equip individuals, groups and institutions to critically confront their discriminatory attitudes and actions, and thus develop sustainable empowering structures.

Trainers: Prasad Reddy, Cvetka Bovha

Date: 09–13 October 2017

PRASAD REDDY is a certified social inclusion and diversity trainer in the non-profit sector with vast international experience. He is the coordinator of the research, training and consultancy network Global Skills for Change in Bonn.

CVETKA BOVHA is a trainer in the Anti-Bias approach. She accompanies schools in the process of inclusion and facilitates programmes of international exchange and volunteer services.

SECURITY MANAGEMENT

Participants are able to

- apply a security management framework and so advance organizational security management;
- apply selected risk and context analysis tools and develop security guidelines.

Peace workers face threats not only because of where they work but also because of what type of work they do. This training aims at proactively managing security on an organizational level while touching aspects of personal security. Therefore coordination or management level staff of NGOs and others who are responsible for security of fieldworkers or activists will benefit most.

The training is structured alongside a security management framework that can also be used for advancing organizational security later on. We work with inputs, examples, exercises and small group work. The training also includes a crisis management simulation and smaller roleplays. The training will focus on creating policies, programmes and practices that make peace work and activism safer.

Trainers: Tanya Spencer, N. N.

Date: 16–20 October 2017

TANYA SPENCER is a human rights monitor and conflict transformation trainer working in hostile environments. These experiences led her into security training which give participants the knowledge and skills to feel and be safer.

COUNSELLING IN TRAUMA AND STRESS

Participants are able to

- assess the effects of traumatic events and adequate responses;
- reflect upon their own role as the counselling person;
- take care of their own needs as caregiver.

Understanding the emotional effects of conflicts and disasters on their victims and responding to the victims' needs are crucial capacities for peace workers and staff of NGOs working in conflict areas and disaster situations.

In this training you will get familiar with the emotional responses to traumatic events, effects of traumatic events on specific vulnerable groups and the social impacts of trauma. Further, the role of the counselling person and the work with victims will be explored and special attention is given to the needs of the caregiver.

This training course addresses staff of NGOs and peace workers who experience or need to assist in traumatic and stressful situations within their work.

Trainers: Ruth Mischnick

Date: 23–27 October 2017

RUTH MISCHNICK studied law and psychology before she worked in crisis and conflict areas. Her focus is on nonviolent conflict transformation and trauma work. She teaches mediation at a university in Vienna.

REALISING GENDER EQUITY

Participants are able to

- understand the basic concept of gender sensitivity in civil society organisations and activists' movements;
- identify in which ways gender is relevant for themselves in their context;
- plan concrete steps for advancing a safer space and gender sensitive mainstreaming.

In this training, we will look at power differences from a gender perspective. Social norms are interacting with power issues and shape society's understanding of 'men' and 'women' and their 'appropriate' roles at work and in the public sphere. A more just society relies on gender-sensitive civil society organisations.

This training, therefore, will look at the relevance of 'gender' on an individual and organisational level. Together we will develop an organisation-specific plan for creating a momentum of change and a plan for transformation.

Trainers: Activists from The Coalition of Women for Peace
Date: 30 October–03 November 2017

THE COALITION OF WOMEN FOR PEACE (CWP) is KURVE's partner in Israel. CWP consists of and works with Jewish and Palestinian activists against the Israel occupation of Palestinian land and uses a feminist perspective on activism, conflict analysis and transformation. It provides training on safe(r) activism and space in civil society organisations.
